Pols barred on rally stage

Organizers say Brothers Mike, Eddie also banned from grandstand

By Christine V. Espinosa

ORGANIZERS OF THE PRAYER RALLY AGAINST Charter change announced yesterday politicians would not be allowed on the Quirino Grandstand along with Bro. Mike Velarde of El Shaddai and Bro. Eddie Villanueva of Jesus Is Lord Movement.

"Participants should just carry the money," said Horacio de Villa, former ambassador to the Vatican and chief organizer of the event. He said that pastors, bishops and ministers should be left on Taft Avenue—well out of sight of the anticipated huge gathering called by the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines.

De Villa said the stage would be exclusively limited to politicians and priests who will coordinate a Mass. She said the strict protocol was meant to keep the occasion devoid of any political color.

"No politicians will be allowed onstage, none at all," she told the business yesterday in a phone interview. She said that since the GPC had sent an invitation to specific persons or groups, the event was open to anyone believing in the call to "watch and pray" for recent political events in the country.

The other day, PNP Director General Oscar Caldeira and his Remundo Velarde also warned politicians and monks who would be arrested if they mount the stage and issue political statements.

Former President Corason Aquino, senators, congressmen and other politicians who had said they would join the prayer rally would be confined in the Quirino grounds.

De Villa said Velarde had been informed of the program and had expressed cooperation with the Church. He said there was no official contact with Villanueva whose group, along with Iglesia ni Cristo, had announced support of the prayer rally.

"We don't have problems with that," said Villanueva's son, pastor Rev. Joel Villanueva. He said his father would not show up on Sunday on the grandstand.

The rally was called by angry bishops after President Macapagal-Arroyo's allies in the House of Representatives last week sent oversight bills in a money-plenary ransomed through a committee.

Sy, Tan, Zobel lead list of 40 richest Pinoy

NAUL TYGON HENRY SY IS one of three billionaires topping a list of the Philippines' 40 richest people who have a combined net worth of $16 billion, Forbes magazine reported in its latest Asia edition. (Full list on Page A12.)

Forbes Asia released its list of the Philippines' rich list, but said that as a group, the 40 wealthiest Pinoy are the least affluent when compared with their counterparts in the region.

The magazine attributed that to the Philippines' chaotic political instability and its small asset market, with an estimated capitalization of $50 billion.

The list, 25 items appeared on the semi-annual preview. According to Forbes Asia, Sy has a net worth of $4 billion, followed by another Chinese-Philippine magnate, Lucio Tan, with a net worth of $2.3 billion.

Sy, 62, owns 27 shopping malls in the Philippines and several others in China. He also owns Batangas City, a seaport town, and has substantial shares in China Bank and Equitable PCIBank. He also owns Highlands Park Hotel, a high-end property developer.

The 72, owner of Philippine Airlines, the country's flag carrier, his business interests include tobacco (Luzon Tobacco), liquor (Asia Brewery) and Textiles (Hidrolip), and banking (Philippine National Bank and Skilled Bank).

He also has extensive property holdings in Hong Kong, China and other parts of Asia.

Jaime Zobel de Ayala, 72, came in third on the Forbes list of richest Pinoy with a net worth.

It's official: GMA jumps off Cha-cha express

By GIC Cabacungan Jr.

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO has jumped off her well-worn Charter change express in the face of a flood of protests against a Palace House initiative to reform a constitution assembly in creating the Constitution without the Senate's participation.

"Philippine democracy will always find the proper time and opportunity for Charter reform at a time when the people deem it ripe and needful and in the manner they deem proper. The Senate must coordinate now and I call upon all our institutions and sectors to stand as one for the country's honor," Mr. Arroyo said in a statement.

Also yesterday, the House of Representatives voted to endorse its resolution convening a constituent assembly (Con-asm) this week to revise the Constitution and adopt the parliamentary system.

Gabriel Claudio, presidential political adviser, said that Macapagal was now making its rights on next year's election, but senators, congressmen and local officials.

Pozon violating VFA; Smith appeals case

By Armand M. Mearns

LANCE CPL. DANIEL SMITH yesterday asked the Court of Appeals to stop the implementation of a Makati judge's order that he continue to be detained in the Makati City Jail.

In a petition for a temporary restraining order filed by his lawyers, the US Marine convicted of raping a Filipino woman, also accused Makati Regional Trial Court Judge Benjamin Pozon for allegedly misinterpreting the pertinent provision in the RP-US Visiting Forces Agreement and for holding views "in direct contravention" of the VFA.

"Where the law is clear, there is no room for interpretation. For the first duty of the court is to apply the law. The court has no power to change but only to interpret the law as it stands at any time," read the opening statement of Smith's 22-page petition.

In a situation where, despite the clear and unequivocal language of the law, a magistrate, sitting as a court, has issued an interpretation... that is diametrically opposed to, and in direct contravention of, the explicit provisions of law, petitioner... submits that [he] magistrate committed grave abuse of discretion that may be remedied through certiorari," it read.

Judge says Constitution, int'l law are on his side

By Terra V. Quinsamola

THE PHILIPPINE JUDGE WHO HAD CONVICTED A US Marine of raping a Filipino woman yesterday said that he had the Constitution and international law on his side when he demanded the soldier's release in his return to US custody.

Rebuttal was limited for a decision described by many as brave and patriotic. Judge Benjamin Pozon said the law that he had to use to justify the release of Lance Cpl. Daniel Smith despite the conviction in it of Philippine and US authorities was limited to the spirit of the debated RP-US Visiting Forces Agreement.

"It is in accordance with the VFA, provided along with the law (and I believe that it is) when it's part of the country's honor," Mr. Arroyo said in a statement.

Esperon clears 2 officers at start of court-martial

By Don Z. Pusthagen

CAMP CARINLE, DAVAO, REGIONAL Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Hermogenes Esperon Jr. dropped a bombshell as the start of the court-martial of 30 officers led by ex-Military chief Maj. Gen. Renato Miranda and ex-Force Ranger chief Brig. Gen. Danilo Lim, acquiring two of the accused without any explanation.

The officers were on trial for allegedly plotting a coup against President Macapagal-Arroyo earlier this year.

The alleged plot was to have been carried out with prominent rebels from the Makati, from the charge sheet on the eve of the court's first hearing here.

Esperon issued the order to exclude Lieutenant Colonel Renato Gualdrup and Valentin Flores, both from the Makati, from the charge sheet on the eve of the court's first hearing here.

Lt. Gen. Alexander Nava, chief of the AFP Southern Luzon Command and court president, announced Esperon's order to drop the charges against Gualdrup and Flores before the court could be formally convened.

While the remaining 28 accused congressional Gualdrup and Flores, their defense counsels recently presented the arbitrary removal to the charge sheet.

One lawyer even questioned whether the trial was being conducted as Esperon's "justice and order."

In his memo dated Dec. 15, Esperon did not give a reason for dropping Gualdrup and Flores at the charge of meeting and of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

He issued that Gualdrup's appointment dated Nov. 25 and the affidavit of Marine commander Maj. Gen. Nelson Alaga and two other Marine officers involving Gualdrup's alleged involvement in the plot.

Antiterror troops press pursuit of Abu Sayyaf

GOVERNMENT FORCES HAVE INTENSIFIED operations against suspected al-Qaida-linked militants to prevent a possible attack when postponed twin Asian summits involving 16 heads of state resume next month, a top security official said Thursday.

The more counterterrorism operations by police and military forces were under way from Marikina to southern Philippines, including Jolo island and Davao region, according to the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was authorized to talk on the matter. Intelligence teams have not received any presence of the militants, including those from the local Abu Sayyaf group in the Jolo island-based Jemaah Islamiyah, he said — the venue of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations summit and its East Asian summit — but security measures were in place to prevent such entry, he said.

Intelligence agencies denied that the militants had planned to disrupt the summit but were hampered by a lack of funds and government operations that have kept them mostly on the run, the official said.

He said they have, Abu Sayyaf chief, late Marikina captain and top Jolo-leader suspect Abdurrahman, now believed who were reported to have planned attacks against the Asian summit, have not been able to escape from Jolo due to intensive U.S. backed offensives. Other militants were also on the run from troops in nearby Maguindanao province, he said.

President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo's government strongly policed the Dec. 13-15 annual summit in Manila, citing a telephone that was blowing out the city, which hosts the country's second largest city. As some businessmen expected, the telephone largely spared the island government security officials, however, said the government was influenced by some local news reports that it was not safe to leave Manila. Arroyo had ordered that militants may be in the "final stages of planning attacks."

A leading police official, who also refused to be named, said planned anti-government protests this week, along with bank closing, rioting, may have also been considered by Arroyo.

Commerce Minister Juan Jose Ben and Tuesday that the closure of the summit was behind the typhoon and rioting. Arroyo has faced growing criticism due to the postponement. Japanese Trade Minister Akira Amari called for a phone explanation "concerning past" and said the situation has undermined the Philippines' credibility.

Baroness Patten, head of the summit organizing committee, returned that the typhoon prompted the postponement and added it was backed by Asian 13 member countries, some of which have criticized their ambivalence to the summit's proposed suspension is heavily.

The leaders of Asian's dialogue partners — Australia, China, Japan, India, South Korea and New Zealand — have yet to confirm their attendance, he said. AP

Conquer your own mountains, Everest climber tells students

GABRIELLE Purusa/your passion

Dr. Gerald Carlo R. Gaudino
Insular Vice-Chief of State

VIA ORAL, SUBIMARINE—"VIRI DUXES" gives one motivation to conquer," said Dr. Gaudino, who considers himself a student to about 200 college students in his typhoon-ravaged province.

Speaking to students from various colleges here, Gaudino encouraged them to pursue their passion as much as the adults, and to be ready to work hard to reach to achieve their goals.

The renowned Filipino climber turned the heavy snow brought about by typhoon Trasing (No. 8, a given to various coastal Subdividing South Sea Islands, Gaudino, sponsored by students from the Marikina State College and the Santa Cruz Institute.

Gaudino emphasized that achieving goals starts with one.

He related to the students his own personal sacrifices. Like him, he used his last-earned income to pursue his passion for mountain climbing instead of buying material things.

"I just set aside the material things that other people enjoy, but I am happy with what I am doing and I am self-satisfied," said Gaudino.

He said conquering Mt. Everest was not the end of his personal goals and that he was still looking forward to climbing the rest of the "Seven Summits."

In the mountain climbing community, the Seven Summits are the seven highest mountains of the seven continents of the world.

Gaudino has so far successfully climbed Mt. Everest in Asia, Mt. Aconcagua in South America and Mt. Kilimanjaro in Africa. He has also climbed Mt. Cho Oyu, the sixth highest mountain in the world.

"Take on every possibility, but stick to one that you love best,"

Gaudino advised.

He related the importance that students and teachers should come from very good people and that they should be in the right of their goals.

"Be ready to face the bureaucracy and obstacles, and overcome them. If you become a state governor, you may end up saying goodbye to your dreams," added Gaudino.

After the session, Gaudino went to Bawanga Lando, one of the nearby damaged villages in this municipality to deliver relief goods.

He also distributed some cash granted by his post in the University of the Philippines Movement of the Mountain, Inland, Urban and Subdividing Office.

"We are grateful that the Gaudino helped us. His mere presence is enough to give hope to the victims of typhoons, flooding and landslides," said Joel Peralta, social media head of the area.

Spanish for OFWs bound for Spain

By Jerome Aeling

OVERSEAS FILIPINO WORKERS ENTERING jobs in Spain may soon need to learn to speak Spanish and acquire following the signing of an agreement between the labor department and the Institute Cervantes de Manila, the cultural arm of the Spanish government.

Under the accord, the government and the IECI agree to coordinate Spanish language and cultural education program to equip qualified OFWs with the language skills to perform their jobs.

The states will also have an alternate agent for companies serving Spanish-speaking countries.

The agreement was signed by Labor Secretary Helen Biron and IECI director Jose Rodriguez.

Call center jobs

"I expect our need to help train necessarily our aspirants for Spanish language will share role of focus, as well as to training the culture of workers under our Pilot Program with Spain to enhance a knowledge of the Spanish language, there will be no jobs in Spain," Rodriguez said.

"By recognizing and jointly certifying our workers in Spanish language skills, we are not only able to train with protection against the services of illegal recruiters paying an exorbitant premium," he said.

Rodriguez said that Spain was giving importance to the further strengthening of the Spanish language, as international language spoken by 460 million people worldwide.

The IECI will establish the selection criteria, process and methodology that would set very suitable levels of qualification and performance.

The effort to be made by the IECI and other training institutions will be shared up by IECI and the Technical Education and Skills Development Institute.

ICM will handle, for a reasonable fee to be paid by the workers, Spanish language and cultural training, supply the teachers for the course and conduct the assessment of workers trained in other institutions.

Pay hike for maids

Manila, the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration has announced that starting tomorrow, Filipino domestic deployed abroad would get a monthly basic salary of $400 (about P10,000) under new labor rules adopted last month.

POEA administrator Francisco Sison-Balboa said that under the new rules, the employer will no longer be allowed to collect a placement fee from the applicant and can only charge for the processing of work papers.

All domestic for foreign employment will have to pass through a training course in language, culture and other skills to be conducted by "units" under the government's "Super Maid" program.

Balboa said that men studying a profession from various educational groups, among that domestic workers who were married and possessed valid IDs, or be exempted from the new rules pertaining to basic pay and the training course.

She said the POEA board was studying whether to allow a brief vacation period, and if that, before the new rules take effect.

The new labor rules are meant to ensure higher pay for the Filipino domestic and reduce workers' costs, including family and social.

Some workers groups said that without history of exploitation, the lifting of the wage limit could cause a decline in adult employment and the rise of illegal recruitment cases.

Balboa dismissed the concerns, saying the eight employers would just have to "take it or leave it."

2 DA execs charged as Esperat slay brains

By Abrian Puga

THE CASE OF SLAIN AGROBIOLOGIST MARCOS ESPERAT-AQUINO has been entangled with the Philippine National Police's announcement that it would be filing a new set of murder charges against the alleged masterminds.

The new charges will be filed against (a) retired Marikina, Laguna officers of the Department of Agriculture in Socorro, General Mariano, and Santa Rosa, the regional accountant, and (b) former General Secretary, the PNP's former director for administration.

Ramos, who heads the PNP's Task Force Bayan which has been assigned to solve the killings of politicians and journalists, said this would be the first time that alleged masterminds of such killings would be charged.

Esperat, a rising and gritty journalist, was killed in March 2003 while dining with his children at her house in Tawarog, Bulacan.

Two's confusion

Last October, a Cebu City judge accepted three pleas and returned the case to a maximum of 90 years in prison for the murder.

The two confused in the murder, saying they had been hired to kill Esperat because of her reports on corruption against agriculture department officials in Marikina.

Shortly after the verdict came down, Justice Secretary Rodolfo Gonzales ordered state prosecutors to go after the alleged masterminds, saying that the evidence showed that Esperat had been murdered because of her routine against "well-intentioned grafters in the DA."

The charges to be filed against Montalvo and Sabay are based on a sworn statement of Sgt. Florio Bana, a police sergeant in Sabay's security, and police prosecutor Rene Bana.

In his affidavit, Bana said that Montalvo and Sabay had paid him and three others P230,000 to kill Esperat.

Clear testimony

His clear testimony was clear, direct and categorical that the money was given to them by Montalvo and Sabay for the killing of the minister. The killing was on the orders of the masterminds," Santos told reporters.

Bana and his family have been placed under the government's Witness Protection Program.

Santos said an administrative case would also be filed before the Supreme Court against Judge Victorio because of the Tawarog City regional and state.

Another set of cases will be filed before the probate court against Cebu City assistant prosecutor Rodolfo Bana for allegedly "withdrawing" the case.

Among the charges to be brought against Montalvo and Sabay are obstruction of justice, working on unjust judgment, giving an account uncorroborated benefits and advantages in the discharge of their official functions through bad faith, arbitrary conduct, despotism, conduct prejudicial to public service and violation of the Code of Judicial Conduct.

Palatino issued an arrest warrant against Montalvo and Sabay May 28, 2005. But the warrants were never implemented.

Charge of venue

In the case, Santos, as counsel for the Espinoza family and the freedom-fund for journalists, requested a change of venue from Tawarog City to Cebu City because of the tremendous influence of the accused masterminds in the case.

On July 22, 2005, Palatino issued an order vacating the arrest warrants against the two alleged masterminds, without a hearing, based on a memorandum submitted by Bana.

On Aug. 27, 2005, Palatino dismissed the case against Montalvo and Sabay again without a hearing, saying there was no probable cause.

In November 2005, the Supreme Court transferred the venue of the case to Cebu City.

On Oct. 7, 2006, Cebu City Judge Eric Montalvo accepted Garry Calogay, Randy Garcia and Emeliano Bana for the murder and attempted murder.

But Montalvo denied a motion to return Montalvo and Sabay to the court as the court said the case saying he did not have jurisdiction over them after their names had been struck out by Palatino.

Santos said that because Montalvo and Sabay were never arrested and charged, there would be no double jeopardy involved with the filing of the new case.

Esperon clears 2 officers at start

Manila—A panel of five judges in the alleged plot to assassinate President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. cleared two officers at the start of the trial.

On Feb. 21, Esperon ordered that 20 officers be tried by military court. The court cleared two officers at the start of the trial.

No evidence

"It is clear that there is no prima facie evidence against Lieutenant Colonel Francisco Esperon and Major Antonio Esperon, who were cleared by the court," said the court.

Esperon's lawyer argued that the fact that Esperon's name was on the list of names of the accused, he was not in the list of names of the accused.

Cat. Pedro Esperon Escribido, Esperon's brother

Judge Alcantara who reviewed the pre-trial investigation (PTI) report on the case, said he was not convinced that the officers were involved in the assassination of President Marcos Jr.

Not a motion, but an order

Defense lawyers said the trial could not proceed without formally announcing the charges.

"This is not a motion. This is an order from the presiding authority (Esperon). This is an order of the presiding authority to announce the charges," said the defense lawyers.

The defense lawyers also formally questioned why they were not given copies of the pre-trial investigation report, which supposedly recommended the dismissal of charges against 20 of the 100 officers investigated.

Esperon's lawyer said he would wait for the trial of Esperon, who was recommended by the court to be tried. He said he would wait for the trial of Esperon, who was recommended by the court to be tried.

Alfredo Cordero, counsel for Army Lt. Francisco Esperon, said military procedure was followed in handling the case of the PTI report on all the pre-trial investigation (PTI) that was supposedly Esperon's name on the list of names.

Lt. Col. (Ret.) Pedro Esperon, the lead prosecutor, said the PTI report was "not a motion" to proceed with the trial. He said the report was considered "privileged communication."

'Mental delinquency'

"The president is saying that the Chief of Staff was not a mental delinquent, so he must be, so he must be," said the court.

While former Esperon, one of the prosecutors, defended the decision to withhold the PTI report, citing a 1991 Supreme Court ruling on the Just Government v. Executive Order 126, Esperon said the high court ruled that a trial could proceed even if there was no pre-trial investigation.

"That is not a delinquency," continued Judge Cordero, who presides over the trial.

She said that in that particular case, the accused officers did not read the report of the pre-trial investigation.

"In our case, we participated in a pre-trial investigation but we were not given a copy of the report," she said.

Esperon's lawyer challenged the defense lawyers' "Why don't you go to the Supreme Court?"

"Why are you not going to go to the court?" said Judge Cordero, who presides over the trial.

Heated arguments

"Prosecution should be first to prove to the court... There can be no trial without the PTI report," said Judge Cordero, who presides over the trial.

Many of the lawyers asked that the case against the officers be postponed so they could prepare a "pre-trial investigation" to clear the court members.

After three hours of heated arguments, Judge Cordero, who presides over the trial,

NPA rebels strike back in Bulacan, kill local exec

UNITED BULACAN—COMMUNIST REBELS have struck back in the coastal areas of Bulacan, contrary to a military claim that a series of government attacks has driven them away from this part of the province.

Residents and local officials said New People's Army rebels wanted to make their province this the province's coastal areas by killing Mariano Ibarra, chief of Barangay Aling here, on Thursday night.

On Nov. 22, 1st Lt. Larry Padilla and Cpl. Milton Adillo, were killed while another soldier, Sgt. Arnold Yungman, was wounded in an encounter with 20 heavily armed rebels in Barangay Pangasinan, in Barangay San Jose, in Calumpit town.

On July 18, suspected rebels gunned down Capt. Paul Oney of the army's 6th Infantry Battalion based in Marikina town.

Subdivisions from the 1st and 2nd Infantry Divisions of the Northern Luzon Command were deployed to the mountainous areas in Bulacan in January as part of an intensified search, according to the Central Luzon.

Sgt. Paul Oney, head of the 7th Brigade under the 7th ID, said NPA rebels in Bulacan, particularly those in the coastal towns, moved elsewhere because Filipino operations had stopped giving them "sustainable" income.

The attacks came as leaders of the Communist Party of the Philippines announced that NPA was given 60 days to launch offensive against government troops in the coming days.

"NPA will continue to be planning and carrying out armed offensives in the near future and we will continue to fight the Armed Forces of the Philippines, Philippine National Police, and their paramilitary agencies," said Gregorio "G-1" Lopez, CPP spokesperson, in a e-mail statement.

The CPP has called on its members in more than 120 parishes from nationwide to carry out attacks and join the people's protest against Church change.

Last week, Malabon staged a military demonstration to declare a crusade with communist rebels the coming Christmas.

Earlier, the NPA declared a nationwide ceasefire to allow dismantled by government "Bong" to allow in armed units and support to conduct "peace operations."

But it did not say when the ceasefire would be lifted.

The NPA, the CPP armed wing, is listed as a "foreign terrorist organization" by the United States, along with the secretive Abu Sayyaf based in southern Mindanao.

LUCEBA, Cebu—WITH the coming election season, senators and local fans of the first Philippine Idol, Marlon "Man" Maramba, have one piece of advice to give: they may be disappointed.

"With the new found national popularity I would advise fans not to allow himself to be misled by politicians," Man's grandmother, Felisa de Reyes, told the system in an interview on Monday.

The legend of Man's late have the same message in the latest singing sensation who was born and grew up in this capital city.

Text messages

"Even before the Manila at the Big Ocean when he passed in my presence, most of the text messages and phone calls I had less than I received but when I received Man in the story from past politicians," said Arnold Arillo, head of morning radio TV program "Play-up your state" since 2007.

Arillo predicted that politicians would come to dream to get Man's support and endorsement in the coming election.

"It would be good for him to just publicly state these things," Arillo pointed out of the messages Man's fans are saying.

But it would also be better for him to just communicate all his participation in the singing world and his role in the singing world to his fans and his role in the singing world.

Car bombings, shootings kill 37 across Iraq

BAGHDAD—IRAQI security forces on Friday killed 37 people in a series of car bombings and shootings across the country in the run-up to national elections.

Multiple car bombs in Shiite districts and a truck bomb in the north targeted Iraqi soldiers patrolling oil pipelines (right) in the run-up to national elections.

Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki held a meeting Wednesday at 22 Baghdad hotels to discuss the situation with his cabinet. He said the government will use security plans to protect the capital and the rest of the country.

The government rejected "terrorism" for the Iraq army, saying police are training in order to be capable of handling security missions all over the country," he said. The delegation, he added, will be the first to visit the country.

Maliki's National Security Advisor, Mawla al-Husseini, said the situation is serious but the Iraqi government will use security plans to protect the capital and the rest of the country.

"The coalition forces should not get involved in domestic issues," he said. "This is a job for the Iraqi army."

Only 12 percent of American troops in Iraq were able to see President George W. Bush in order to prevent a change in the status of the "United States" flag and a half-year old agreement in Iraq.

On Tuesday, the White House said it would send a new Iraq strategy in January, but Maliki's government already has the change in Iraq's status.

However, many people in Iraq fear the result of an early election in January, but Maliki's government already has the change in Iraq's status.

US intelligence says the situation in Iraq is serious, especially since many are believed to have already taken sides in the sectarian conflict against the capital.

US, UK may enforce Darfur no-fly zone

WASHINGTON—THE US AND BRITAIN ARE considering enforcing a no-fly zone over Sudan's war-torn Darfur region if the Khartoum government does not allow a UN-led peacekeeping force in, the State Department said Wednesday.

But noted Thursday news options during a meeting here last week with US President George W. Bush said amid growing frustration with Sudan's refusal to comply with past agreements on the peacekeeping deployment, department spokesmen here, McCornack said.

"From Monday, that's what it is at the table," McCornack said of the no-fly zone, which would aim to halt the use of Sudanese government planes and helicopters to support attacks on villages in Darfur. He said Sudanese may consent to a suspension of violence in the vast western, Sudanese region, where more than 200,000 people have been killed and 2.5 million displaced during nearly five years of fighting between ethnic African rebels and militia allied to the Arab-led government in Khartoum.

"The president is going to consider what options he thinks necessary to order to address the grave situation there," McCornack said, adding that the move to consider tougher measures was occasioned by a "lack of forward movement on the diplomatic front over continued with an uptick in violence" in Darfur.

The Financial Times reported earlier Wednesday that Blair had urged Bush to take concrete steps against Khartoum and that options under consideration by the US administration included air strikes and a naval blockade—measures advocated by some human rights groups and former US officials.

McCornack said the newspaper report was "way-out there" if any actual planning for military action and insisted that "our basic right now is to diplomatic means." But if the violence continues and Sudan proves to be reluctant to implement peacekeeping agreements, "then of course the international community has to consider other options," he said.

"The violence has to stop and the humanitarian situation needs to be addressed," A US and British but push for military action in Sudan. Sudanese have been seen after the location of Iraq could face significant opposition from Arab states and in the UN Security Council, where China, which says most of Sudan's oil—could intervene.

The UN resolution on Darfur have included provisions for the Sudanese to bring its military force to the region, though they do not explicitly allow for imposition of a no-fly zone.

Bush's special envoy to Sudan, Andrew Natsios, met with President Bush at the White House Thursday and said the two had agreed on steps "that may make some progress in improving security in Darfur."

PARIS—AN OUTRAGED JEWELER SAID he found a video Wednesday which he said showed Dodi Al Fayed picking up an engagement ring for Prince William, son of Britain's late Queen Elizabeth II, before he died in their 1997 Paris car crash.

The letter to AFP which obtained a copy of the video, the jewelry company Argenteo said it was making the images available after receiving authorization from Mohamed Al Fayed, Dodi's wealthy father who has long insisted Dodi's death was behind the car accident.

Argenteo said it had not previously released the surveillance video on the advice of its lawyers, but did not elaborate.

The movie came a day before the publication of a British report which is expected to confirm French findings that the couple's death was not fatal, raising questions suggested by Mohamed Al Fayed that Dodi, and his son, might have been killed by British intelligence.

The washed-out, black-and-white video, which was timestamped Aug. 20, 1997, showed a man resembling Dodi Al Fayed entering Argenteo's upscale Paris boutique boutique to receive them, which happened the day Dodi married William Al Fayed.

The man entered at 10:10 p.m., according to the timestamp, and stayed a total of seven minutes. During that time he can be seen examining several jewelry pulled out of a case and placed on a table. In the end he said, he seems to pick something up off a table and then leaves.

In the early hours of the next morning, Aug. 21, Dodi Al Fayed, 32, and Dodi, 26, were killed, blowing apart on the middle of the road.

After Paul, the driver of the limousine, provided by the film, where they had been staying, had control of the car and it crashed into a support pillar of a tunnel at high speed.

Argenteo on Tuesday issued a statement saying Dodi Al Fayed had inspected engagement rings in its Moscow branch earlier August 1997 and had "bought the ring to be ready by Aug. 20, 1997, at the latest." It said "Dodi Al Fayed" went to the Argenteo boutique on the Place Vendôme to collect the engagement ring, which came from the "big" for collection, to give it to Princess Diana "in a secret place, as well as the evening after, it had given of the purchase in the form of a receipt. Such pieces of evidence had been given to legal authorities who investigated the subsequent car crash, the jeweler's said.

The French police concluded that the 300,000 franc ring was stolen from the couple because he was drunk, high on prescription drugs and driving too fast.

Diana married Prince Charles, but in the British throne, in July 1981 and was a highly popular member of the royal family. The couple separated in December 1992 and divorced in August 1996.

Mohamed Al Fayed claims Dodi and his son were killed on the orders of the British intelligence to prevent the marriage.

Aboitiz wins bidding for Magat plant

$530-M offer bested bid of FirstGen unit

By Angel L. Ho

AN ABOITIZ POWER INC. YESTERDAY WON THE bidding for the 260-megawatt (MW) Magat hydropower plant in Isabela with an offer of $530 million.

The giant Power Sector Assets and Liability Management Corp. (PSALM) is biggest user of hydropower.

The company, a joint venture between Aboitiz Equity Ventures and EN Power Holding Singapor, beat First Generation National Energy Corp., the only other bidder, which offered $520.8 million for the plant.

EN Power Holding is a unit of Norway's EN Power Invest AS.

BSP sees 2007 exports rising by 14% to $52.2B

By Dore C. Domingo

THE PHILIPPINE BSP UPDATES ITS 2007 growth target to 11.5 percent from 10.5 percent in 2006, despite a likely downturn in the US economy, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas said yesterday.

The bank's growth forecast, which was based on the export earnings decline of the National Statistics Office, will result in real output of P12.1 billion for 2007.

"This is based on expectation that there will be continued growth in Europe and an improvement in the economic activity in Japan which will partly offset the impact of a slowdown in the U.S.," BSP Governor Ricardo Trillanes A said in a press briefing.

He said increased trading with China and other Southeast Asian neighbors would likewise lead growth in export revenue.

The BSP also expects the country's import bill to grow by 14 percent to P61.95 billion.

Based on the BSP's outlook on balance of payments, however, export earnings were expected to grow by 12 percent to P45.28 billion while the import bill was projected to expand by the same rate to P65.6 billion.

Services exports, along with strong investment flows, are expected to drive growth, and foreign portfolio and direct investments, are expected to allow the BSP to maintain a 4 percent to 5 percent interest rate.

The increase in import spending already assumes higher oil prices as well as purchases of capital goods and raw materials to support export and the recovery of manufacturing.

Dole expands operations in N. Luzon

TO EXPAND ITS OPERATIONS in northern Luzon, Dole Philippines Inc. has signed a contract growing and marketing agreement with the provincial government of La Trinidad, Benguet.

According to Gregory C. Dole, Dole Philippines director for Northern Luzon, the memorandum of agreement is signed with La Trinidad Mayor Ismael Pangasinan and Agriculture Secretary Nelson C. Day would increase the operations of the agribusiness company in the north.

Previously, Dole focused its operations and operations in the Marikina and Marikina regions. Pangasinan said that the MCA would expand into Philippine line of fruits (passion fruit and guava) products.

Under the agreement with the provincial government of La Trinidad, the company would have an entirely share by the standards on agricultural methods based on the code Good Agricultural Practices (GAP).

"It has been agreed upon that farmers participating in the contract growing program will work to ensure that the agricultural products are produced organically or with minimal toxic inputs," (a) comply with the maximum residue limits (MRL) as set forth by the export markets," Pangasinan said.

According to the MCA, the provincial government of La Trinidad will establish a P&L and loss facility where the fruits and vegetables would be washed, cleaned and packed.

The Department of Agriculture, on the other hand, would also change of the method and existing of farmers required by the MCA.

"Up said that the establishment of modern post-harvest facilities would improve agricultural production in the province."

La Trinidad has over 20,000 hectares of vegetable and fruit farms (a) by over 200,000 farmers. Christina A. Caplan

Americans turn to other mango sources in Luzon

By Christine A. Caplan

PHILIPPINE MANGO EXPORTS were under a heavy cloud of uncertainty for 2008, with the United States as a major market for the fruit. The Philippines have begun to shift attention to other sources in Luzon and Mindanao.

Mangoes from all over the country, except Mindanao, will be allowed entry in US territories, as well as Hawaii, said Bruce Weber, US Dept. of Agriculture director.

Under the new development, the Philippines are now a "major source" for the United States.

Before, only mangoes grown in Commonwealth were allowed into US territories.

"We are in compliance with the US standards, experimental shipments with no restrictions," Robert added.

He also said that the USDA would grant $1 million for the experimental shipment. The first year, shipments would be under a pilot and within 12 months of Philippine mangoes grown elsewhere, to determine if they could safely enter the market.

"The results of the pilot will be the basis for which US quarantine authorities will appear to deny the Philippines request to allow mango production outside of Commonwealth to export the tropical fruit to the US," Weber said.

Representatives of the USDA, the Bureau of Plant Industry, the Philippine Ministry of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration recently in Manila discussed the situation.

"Export is not a solution — it will be increasing the quality of mangoes produced in the standard maximum residue level," as well as to improve the United States' mango industry.

"This will require a budget of at least $100,000," he said.

Based on the limited shipments in the United States, the Philippines has also been delivering mangoes to Japan, Hong Kong, New Zealand, United Kingdom, Sweden and Belgium.

Foreign chambers seek market reforms

By Marissa W. Dominguez

THE JOINT FOREIGN CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE of the Philippines has urged Congress to pass new laws related to capital markets development reforms that will benefit workers employed in foreign firms.

In separate letters addressed to Senate President Miguel Villar and House Speaker Jose de Venecia, JFC asked both chambers to approve bills to establish a Personal Equity and Retirement Account (PERA) and a Free-Retail Loans.

"Each bill is important in the hundreds of thousands of Filipinos employed by our members (or well as), millions of employees in the formal sector of the economy who are among the most heavily taxed groups in the economy," the group said.

JFC members include the American, Australian, Swiss, Canadian, European, Japanese and Korean chambers and the Philippine Association of Multinational Companies Regional Headquarters.

"A large number of our companies have invested their hard-earned savings in personal plans, motivated by the better education of their children," the group explained.

"But some have been victimized by the inability of plan providers to meet contractual obligations to provide benefits when plans mature," it added.

JFC said the Free-Retail Code would seek to prevent such abuses through improved industry regulations and increased provision for strong policy providers.

On the other hand, the PERA would allow individual taxpayers "who are already subject to the highest personal income tax rates in Asia to save small amounts tax-free."

JFC noted that the Philippines has a low savings rate, adding that a PERA law would encourage Filipinos to save up through something similar like the United States' Individual Retirement Account.

25-40% of NCR employers deemed delinquent by SSS

Some not paying, others underdeclaring

RP-Indonesia coal deal opposed

By J. J. Giguère, Ph.D.

THE PHILIPPINE CHAMBER OF Coal Mines (Philcoal) will oppose a bilateral agreement between the Philippine and Indonesian governments for the supply of Indonesian coal to the Philippines.

As a Japanese subsidiary, with the long-term coal supply deal, the government will enable Sumitomo to a coal mining enterprise in America, which could be a

Instead of striking out on their own, the group said the government should just let market forces decide the direction

"The automatic feature of such agreement is unbreastmaking is to prevent stable supply and equally stable prices of coal. However, there is an abundant supply of coal in the world market and the prices have been going down and ought to go down further in the foreseeable future."

The managers get enough disagreement or dissatisfaction by the private asset sale to initiate another opportunity cost, so this will create an under and over-investment in the investment.

Poland urged the government to reconsider its decision to enter a bilateral agreement with Indonesia, considering the oversupply of coal in the world market.

In its earlier iterations, Energy Use Secondary-Galleon's Ender said the company had supply agreements available in line with a current status of uncertainty that the projects were signed with Lockheed in 2003.

At present, however, PT Baidi does not see these issues as a deal breaker.

What the government could not do, he said, was to enter into supply agreements with private

US retail sales jump

NAIRINGTON, 23. Retail sales jumped sharply in November as shoppers went on spending sprees that will reinforce the Federal Reserve's view that the economy's cooling market has not lost the momentum of the recovery.

Data from the Commerce Department in Washington showed retail sales gained 1.1 percent last month, outpacing their longer-term average rate.

Retail sales excluding autos and other goods, a measure referred to as core retail sales, rose 0.5 percent last month, outpacing its longer-term average rate. The 2.5 percent gain pushed the 12-month average to 3.2 percent.

US stores were initially boosted by the sales and the Dow Jones industrial average posted a record high, but the retail sector's growth was not as strong as in the past few months.

The holiday sales season has been in a very good form, with retail sales growing by 1.1 percent in November, according to a survey by the National Retail Federation, which says the 12-month average is 3.2 percent.

US economic growth slowed in the third quarter as a 2.2

percent annual rate and more consumers had expected it to fall further in the third three months of 2006—a view that was reinforced by Wednesday's data that projected other financial firms to fall from 10.5 to 10.2 percent.

The Federal Reserve's latest report on the economy showed that the economy's growth was not as strong as in the past few months.

Qantas accepts takeover offer

SYDNEY—AUSTRALIAN FLAG CARRIER and national line Qantas accepted an increased $2.7 billion offer on Thursday from a private equity group, a day after rejecting a lower bid.

For the world's largest airline, Qantas, the Qantas board unanimously backed the improved price of $2.7 billion, which was a 10 percent increase over the $2.5 billion offer from the private equity group.

The decision follows the offer after Qantas shareholders voted to accept the offer, which was a 10 percent increase over the $2.5 billion offer from the private equity group.

Toshiba gets out of music, sells to EMI

TOKYO—ELECTRONIC and MUSIC giant Toshiba Corp. announced on Thursday that it will sell its entire stake in Japanese label Toshiba EMI to British parent EMI Group, saying the move was no longer relevant to its business.

Toshiba said it would sell its stake for about $2.7 billion and complete the deal by September.

One of Japan's major music and entertainment companies, Toshiba EMI is currently controlled 45 percent by Toshiba and the remaining 55 percent by EMI, the world's third-largest music company based in London.

Toshiba accepted an offer from the EMI Group "to the music content business which is less relevant to Toshiba Corp," it said in a statement.

Toshiba EMI primarily handles distribution of music and other audio products in the Japanese market.

EMI's top line sales in Japan, which are a major part of its business, are expected to be around $2.7 billion.

Rellenong bangus for noche buena, anyone?

HOW ABOUT BOOZING? Rellenong bangus laced with rum for noche buena and pork-pork sa pinipala sa New Year's Eve? Agriculture Secretary Marito Tap is encouraging Filipinos to serve more seafood than their dinner table this holiday season using more local produce to ease the pressure on dollars and pork when prices take a premium at this time of the year.

"We just want to tell our consumers that there are plenty of alternative food sources that would make the holiday season filling and exciting and they would be helping our local suppliers," said Tap.

Tap gave the advice at the Department of Agriculture and Department of Trade and Industry roadshow to the anticipated spike in prices of chicken and pork, the main meat during celebrations in many Filipino homes. The Philippines has no longer chicken and pork especially in the fourth quarter every year to augment local supply and meet the last holiday splurge on meat of chicken and even less. Tap said thanks to imports he's assured the government that it would keep prices at the prevailing market price of P55 to P100 per kilo.

"Anything beyond that, they said would be excessive," said Tap.

Trade Secretary Marito Tap says pork

GOVERNMENT wants Filipinos to explore alternative Christmas fare other than the usual chicken and pork.

producers and meat processors have likewise assured him of adequate supply of their products for the next week. This should keep pork prices stable at between P140 and P150 per kilo, he said. Tap said consumers could help ease the cost pressure on chicken and pork by eating fish products especially bangus which costs only P90 to P95 per kilo and chicken at P75 to P80 per kilo.

"Christmas meals should not be defined by chicken and pork only," Tap said. Both Tap and he said that while the government would insure a Christmas provision on commodities, "these should be reasonable and not excessive."

Radiant beauty philosophy

By Charles K. Nouri

RESPECT FOR THE WOMAN

That, according to Dr. Oliver Courtes Claris, is the philosophy behind the beauty and skincare company Claris, founded by his father Jacques in Paris in 1934.

"The tradition began by my father but it will continue for [myself] results to the women," Claris said at the recent opening of the new Claris Institute at Francisco Mall. "Our vision is to listen to what women want and be able to address them in what is so specific to their concerns. We don't just sell them the products. We talk to our clients."

As a young man, it would've been unusual for Claris to speak about the family business with the same passion as he does today. An orthopedic surgeon by profession, he is a self-described proponent of the Cartesian school of thought, a pragmatic value system. It's just in his endeavor to get tangible results. This is why he spent no speculation in orthopedics instead of dermatology, as would've been expected of the son of a cosmetics firm that was founded, ironically, on the same great value basis.

The orthopedic field, Claris told, allowed him to see actual and immediate results—bringing his patients back on their feet.

It was only in 1984, on the his father's behest, that Claris began dabbling in the company's research laboratories, but only on a part-time basis. It wasn't until 12 years later that he gave up his practice and devoted his time to the firm. He now heads research and development and is concurrently the company's managing director in charge of finance, operations and marketing.

Pioneer brand

Claris has over 50 boutiques around the world. The first Claris Institute in the Philippines was opened in 1998 on the third level of Fashion Mall. This was where loyal Claris users got their regular beauty treatments—specialized facials, skinning and body firming treatments, makeup services. After several weeks of observation, the new location has responded on the department store's fifth level.

"Cosmetics have become very scientific," he

THE PHILIPPINE cosmetics firm will soon introduce a spray mist to fight electro-magnetic radiation from computers and cell phones.

said. "We're very proud of our scientific side. We always want to improve our [formulations], but sometimes we can't because they're already the best... but we have done work on some products. The Double Serum used to have only 30 ingredients, now it's 42."

There are four ingredients outside the heart of Claris' formulation, and the brand is now set to be a pioneer in plant-based cosmetics. While there are arguments that have criticized the use of plants in cosmetics, mounting some botanical ingredients for creating allergic reactions to some users, Claris insists that it is a case-to-case basis.

Anti-radiation mist

"There are more problems caused by chemicals. Plant materials, as long as they're pure, are always better. We are the best because I try all the products myself. We don't sell it if it's not good and efficient. Some of our products can take some years to develop. And the best doesn't always have to be the most expensive."

Claris said the firm would soon introduce another pioneering invention, initially to the Asian market. Called Claris Superior 3D, the liquid mist is said to protect the skin from premature wrinkles brought by electromagnetic waves and radiation from computers and cellular phones.

Claris has also formulated MyBlend, several day cream and night booster that does not mix according to their specific needs. This is his answer to the emerging demand for more personalized skincare.

"Women also are most of our products at our wedding cosmetics surgery. They are not just pre-wedding," he said.

Claris said the market for Claris skin is also continuously growing. While it makes up only 1 percent of the Claris business, skin cosmetics increased by 26 percent after the first year.

"They're learning," he said. "They know our cosmetics aren't only for women. We'll say that about our protection from AGO."

How to look your best always

THE CETAPHIL FAMILY OF cleansers and moisturizers is created for all skin types and is recommended by most dermatologists. Cetaphil Gentle Skin Cleanser and Moisturizers are available here, non-comedogenic and pH-balanced. These products don't strip the skin's natural protective barrier that may leave it dry and irritated.

For Cetaphil, the best hair laundry routine is still the best way to looking good. This includes regularly cleaning the face, washing makeup before bed, and, even, using Cetaphil, a good night's sleep and drinking lots of water.

Here are some tips on how you can look your best every day.

You are what you eat. A diet high in fats and sweets affect the skin's appearance and skin. A varied diet rich in fruits, natural fiber, balanced in protein, fats and carbohydrates is good for the complexion.

Winks were your favorite drink. Water is essential to keep the skin supple, soft and healthy. Drink at least 8-10 glasses of water to keep the body's chemical balance and keep the skin hydrated.

Think twice before indulging in alcoholic beverages as they tend to dehydrate the skin and might lead to wrinkles.

Catch some sleep. Sleep is one of the most important activities our body has to go through. If it is during this time, that the skin undergoes a regeneration process and repairs any cells while replacing damaged ones. As much as possible, get some sleep before midnight and supplement it with a dose of Vitamin C, which is essential for the nighttime regeneration of collagen fibers that are responsible for making the skin supple.

Stop on some sunblock. Avoid the sun's harmful rays by applying a sunscreen or tanning bed. The sun's rays make premature skin aging or wrinkling.

Wash your face before going to bed. Although it is tempting to jump into bed after a long day, it is important to clean the face of makeup and accumulated dirt. Wash the face with a gentle, non-soap formula and then apply moisturizer.

ANNA Bayle

YOU CAN'T BE TOO THIN OR too thin—that's what people love to say in this era to explain their obsession with thinness. Can you really be "too thin" and die. The big news is a few months back was a Spanish model's death, apparently of anorexia. She died at 34 [1].

That death precipitated interest in Modeling in Asia, this model's or to improve weight requirement on models—what, of course, didn't progress beyond Madrid.

While models' weight is no concern as to say for so without hands serves the paper's photos. On occasion with Modeling in Asia.

If there's one word our daughters love that I have said and some that I have, and that's thinner both when not and when they without having colored feelings. It is for!

I have talking, people's bodies reaching me as I had with a new woman, 20-year-old, whom my son was giving everything keeping to me. "Dad," he said, "I was so proud of my body." So you're obsessed with being thin other models are a lot. They needed it to use the energy for the daily shows.

What I found interesting was how Anna described the constant meals in each constant house during fashion weeks.

"Models eat. Some of us could eat a lot," she says.

She recalled the meals of fashion collections. "I would jump from tap to tap and check out what was good to eat. I remember holidays in Paris, one of the big days because you have such heavy lunches like Mouslines.

"Living Paris, even though I still had shows to do before every holiday, I would always go to Tony's and where there was Western food and things food because they had some better for the models."

After the shows, Anna recalled how their agents would pick up the models in 10:30 and take to get them to a restaurant "where we'd be seated in a long table of 20 to 30 girls. We'd eat full meals...appetizers, pasta, meat course, dessert, wine, after dinner drinks."

Anna described a beautiful model in a way only she could. "It is absolutely true that a long silhouette looks better for the clothes. It is true that the thinner you are, as a model, the better. However, really does not cut it, it becomes monstrous. I don't models should understand that they are in the luxury business. Luxurious, elegant, sophisticated. It does not make them beautiful. It is the elegance, the energy, the proposed styling that makes them beautiful."

To take it from Anna Rydz. All the great models are—from Jerry Hall to Cindy Crawford.

"After all, it is only fashion. It is not something to be feared," Anna Rydz said.

Marcy's homecoming

From one New Yorker we go to another: Marcy Kniff. Today's fashionista would hardly know Marcy for he left the industry more than 30 years ago. We couldn't get this party schedule was only last month, through Louis XIV, his blood of 23 years. The last time we saw him was last week at Heidi Klum's (he is) would be elegant opening of Cofe (he is) art exhibit of mixed media paintings, which are something to check out, by the way.

That was the last time, for Marcy died a few days after, in Paris, while with Cindy Crawford-Cindy and Cindy's brother Marco, and Howard Stern. Marcy died, probably of heart attack. He was 64.

Marcy worked here in the 1970s with Pierre Cardin, then moved to Germany and finally to Berlin where he became an ambassador to France, where France was the most of the fashion world, the first Japanese designer apart from Issey Miyake, to have won such distinction.

Last July, he came home after a visit to a garment firm in New York, to arrive here, and he with his family on Christmas, what would have been his final with them in those decades. He didn't make it to his day.

Last Monday, Marcy, Cindy, their friends Mike (he is) and Olive (he is) took the boat ride on Laporte Bay to Marcy's small village on Lake (he is) off (he is) from (he is) there, on a sunny afternoon, they joined Marcy's family with the village folk in the long walk to the small cemetery and laid him to rest.

Marcy was finally home.

Dazzle and shine with the right outfit

REDWINGS (opposite) offer more than to help you dazzle, sparkle and shine during the holidays.

A powerful dress and a shiny one-way black tights will make you look like the diva with your boyfriend and his family. For the office Christmas party, leggings with a subtle stretch and a wide white lace belt, plus platform and high-heeled shoes, may just be what you need. Go for a red belt on patterned tights that topped with pull-on canvas, covered disc sandals or even over-the-knee boots.

Part with the gang by having the right pants. Go purple or silver, and choose leggings and suspenders or opt for velvet or velvet-like leggings, or even, silver or black, and black or white over-the-knee boots.

For the family reunion, try a dress with short and black tights topped with cropped grey flares and silver headbands. Reddish purple is a "the weekend dress" or elegant dress, with a lace bodice top and a short skirt detailed with high-heeled stripes.

With large, wide short skirt of black tights and candy cane or monochrome prints to suit any occasion during the holiday season, or even the New Year's Eve party.

Makeup by Patrick Rosas

—anytime, anywhere

By Claudia Y. Flores

THINGS ARE COMING UP soon, since more for Patrick Rosas.

After days ago, the makeup artist launched the first collection of his very own makeup line. Typical of Rosas, the event was low key, as it was attended by some of his most loyal. A flat-chested, hairy high society and the entertainment business.

"It's filled, of course, especially at the time of my presentation for Filipino makeup artists," he says. "I have the same makeup line." He said, "You know me, I like to keep things quiet and simple." He said, however, (I paid the cost of the launch several months ago).

Collaboration

Patrick Rosas the makeup line is a creative collaboration between the artist and some of his friends in the industry. It was the London-based Filipino designer Loretta Maderal who inspired Rosas to launch his collection. Maderal, who is also a makeup artist, and eye makeup came in also white compact. The designer James Rosas designed Rosas' logo, and created an outfit, which contrasted against the white compact and emphasized the red lips. Maderal, who is also a makeup artist, and eye makeup came in also white compact.

Longtime friend and collaborator Ben So created the design of the product, and the name of the brand, girl. Maderal created the packaging design, while designers Jule Llanes and Denise Llanes also gave their creative input. Dennis also gave their creative input. Dennis also gave their creative input.

Creating the makeup line was a process to be the most challenging part for him. It was a process to be the most challenging part for him. It was a process to be the most challenging part for him. It was a process to be the most challenging part for him.

'Grade A' makeup

"I had to be very busy since there would be my name," he said. "I didn't want to be a grade A." The first products, he purchased, are up to his standards. Grade A, he said, is a grade A, he said, is a grade A, he said, is a grade A.

When these young women entrepreneurs approached Rosas with the idea of creating his own makeup line some months ago, he said yes, but it was a hard lesson to learn.

"I got approached with these business proposals," he explained, "but I never had money. I knew it was hard work, and I only wanted to do what I was doing."

But the women's presentation inspired him. Eventually, G-Lite, owned by friends Nicky Ng, Charles King and Victoria Changpook, last year introduced a makeup line for the young and trendy market. It was by the time that the women's presentation was over that would have Rosas' name, inspired as he was by the latter's job during her sister's wedding.

No Rule collection

The initial Patrick Rosas collection comprises three shades, those lip glosses and three eye shadow tones. The series talks to his collection in the palette are currently classic but will take the Filipino's favorite color and also the Chinese and Taiwanese color scheme.

"I don't have a final rule," he said. "I don't have a final rule," he said. "I don't have a final rule," he said. "I don't have a final rule," he said. "I don't have a final rule," he said.

The appeal for a successful collection, said Rosas, because "I didn't want to go overboard by creating so much, as I didn't want to put my business partners in a bind. I want to see how the market would respond first."

His launch at Sunroom in Bonifacio Heights recently made most first-day sales for any makeup brand, Sunroom is the exclusive retailer of the line. Encouraged, he was preparing for his sophomore collection to launch first quarter of 2009.

The makeup made at PMS (Chloe Co.), PMS says Rosas' first and PMS Co. (Chloe Co.), Rosas said this is a chance for them to show Filipino who couldn't afford to personal services—a minimum of five figures—to experience the Patrick Rosas magic.

Rosas said he only had these professional grade to come up with a look demonstrating his work, to create his own makeup line, and he has a friend who he could work with to help in the process.

Many Filipinos, he explained, still have a lot of room to improve on when it comes to makeup.

"We need to learn more, to reach their level as professionals. Some are surprised that why they stick to the same look. This approach should be realistic," he said.

"When I was preparing for my first collection, I had a lot of people who were interested in my brand, called 'Rosas' and 'Rosas'—they really wanted to make the line because they thought I was just doing it as a hobby. When the first was launched, everyone wanted to be part of the second line."

"Now, there are some who come up to me and say I should've gone to them for the makeup product," he said, adding he was happy that he was able to create his own makeup line throughout the launch of his brand.

FINALLY, THE FULL FLAVOR OF SALT WITHOUT THE HARMFUL SIDE EFFECTS.

IF YOU LOVE SALT BUT HATE WHAT IT DOES TO YOUR HEALTH, TRY PAN SALT!

PAN SALT is a clinically proven, health-enhancing salt that gives food the same savory flavor as common salt without the harmful effects.

PAN SALT is rich in the essential minerals Magnesium and Potassium... unlike common salt that only has Sodium. Ironically, the primary cause of high blood pressure that can lead to heart attacks, strokes and kidney damage is too use of table salt.

PAN SALT has the taste, look and texture of common salt... but it's the only you can salt it in the kitchen and on the table... and preserve your health while still savoring delicious food.

So if you don't have the heart to give up salt... choose PAN SALT!

and you, there was little if any we saw in the vintage. Designer's collection consisted of soft, draped dresses made of chiffon and inspired by the colors of the Midwest.

So far, the pieces were good. In fact, they were very wearable. In keeping, perhaps, with Chicago's reputation as an RTW designer, but the collection was neither new nor "trendy" in that it was a range of wearables in one way or another.

Hot, hants, hot news!

PHERE FRILLO LEFT HER post as creative director of China last January to spend more time with her family. Barely a year after, she's back in the fashion scene... quietly and unofficially, by it seems.

The designer, who was responsible for putting Chloe back on the fashion map with her feminine little dresses and iconic handbags, is reportedly consulting with Gap. Since the clothing company moved its design office in London, it's been working with design consultants like Thilo.

The clothing company also launched Roland Mouère's capsule collection of dresses early this month, but there's no news if any of Philo's designs has or ever will reach the states.

Gap can certainly benefit from Philo's design expertise, and fashion fans will surely be thrilled to get their hands on Philo pieces with Gap prices!

Some wearables, some forgettables

Text by John T. Bergman
Photos by Jeff M. Harris

A FRIENDS ONCE SAID THAT FASHION designers, whether willingly or not, generally fall under two groups: those who consciously look back to the past and those who gaze reflectively to the future.

We were reminded of that when we recently went through a parade of clothes from the spring-summer collections of 11 of the country's top designers at the fashion fair.

Killed on "Silverman 10," the dress was the epitome of a modernist. It was a fashion show sponsored by Time magazine and organized by Metro-magazine owner Gaudin.

While those who ardently cling to the past tend to repeat themselves (or worse, do a lip-synched version of some one else's work and claim it as their own), those who boldly venture into the future have the risk of falling flat on their faces.

Milkyway's friend was clearly in the one of the former, not group. He said, "I've always been very bold than the others. Through the years, Italian guys as well as guys have been known to come out with regularly from both camps."

But to predict which direction they would take, the friend said, "Silverman" designers would be in new heights like four seasons and Vittorio Barba or instead like Tippi D'Amico and Amy Garsman.

At a collection parade of vibrant colors and inspired by their friends, D'Amico's clothes appeared strongly influenced from the hip-hop, a number of tops and bottoms were alluring and featured colorful prints.

The usually reliable D'Amico seemed to have run out of creative steam this time around. Her second row, still dressed made of linens, skirts and jeans were no more than the one produced by D'Amico's collection of

"Project Runway."

While some got stuck in the old and used (and overly predictable) like those D'Amico and Barba had, others, like Federico Falla, deliberately went for the "fresh and new" approach via long, white printed and blue denim.

One perhaps in his character was wit, Barba came out of the "Silverman" virtually unscathed. In fact, a number of women found his "fresh" "Silverman," then, it only he had produced a "Silverman" similar to the one worn by D'Amico to finish to appeal to a younger audience.

Color also plays an important part when layering. Bold contrasting or complementary colors are fun and look when worn together. But if you're more playful, mix with neutral-colored items. Try combining monochromatic colors that blend nicely but look just as distinct.

You can also experiment with femininity. Women's look with up-to-the-knee accessories like belts (P499.11), or the skirt of the hips, skirts, cardigans or chokers, bangles, neckties and the like.

Or, if you're more experimental with different looks and accessories, when you start to feel that chill in the air (and even if you don't), try a bit of layering for a whole lot of fashion.

LITTLE GIRLS CROSS OFF FOR THE HOLIDAYS AT 110

They're definitely in a vibrant, vibrant as they dance in rich jewel tones—ruby red, emerald green, sapphire purple, yellow light. There's nothing shy about this collection—color glow, and organic and silk robe.

Shapes are full and feminine with subtle hints giving a fresh look to traditional dresses. Details...ruffles, flowing lace belts, floral appliques and beadwork...are subtle yet remarkably elegant to bring on the holiday spirit.

The collection is available in the children's water department of all 160 stores.

FLICKER weighed it, strapped

CLEAN, CONCEPTS, AND CRISP PRICES make up the Holiday Collection fashion show with which Marks & Spencer, the biggest clothing retailer and a multinational parent-food retailer in the UK, recently opened its 12th store in the Philippines at the Old Mall of Ayala.

The new store houses the extensive range of women's and men's fashions, accessories and luggage, as well as food. It offers such store brands as the Blue Harbor Storage, the Natchez Classic, Autograph, and renewed 13 exclusive seasonal designers such as Jeffrey Mink, Noel Laif and Ginochet Lenoir.

Buttons in the collection are Annapolis suit jackets combined with Annapolis long-sleeved formal shirts, sweaters and ties. Per Line beaded swim dress, a Seppin hoodie (the top is black and red, Per Line middle fabric, Annapolis Crop pants in black, three-fourth sleeve neck in various colors, and Wang Chiao has long brownish hair.

Stuck & Spence also offers great Christmas packages in its luxury series. Gift sets for women are available in scents of magnolia, rose and lavender, while Baccarat carries the theme of ginkgoes and bamboo woods.

Gift sets for men are filled with favorites, including items from Lila, Harvard, Kalamazoo and Woodbridge. The food and wine gift sets have delectable choices of wine, chocolate, pasta, soups and soups, among many others.

The advertisement features a vibrant background with a yellow and red gradient. At the top, the M&M's logo is prominently displayed. Below it, the word 'JazzUp' is written in a large, stylized, yellow font with a red outline. Underneath 'JazzUp', the words 'Your Christmas 2011' are written in a smaller, red, cursive font. To the right of the text, there is a small illustration of a Honda Jazz car. Below the car, there are several mobile phones and a laptop, suggesting prizes. At the bottom, there are two M&M's characters: a yellow one on the left and a red one on the right, both wearing Santa hats. The background is decorated with colorful confetti and streamers.

I am currently reading two books: Jane Fonda's memoir "My Life So Far" and Moby's comedy "The Black Sheep is Dead." Jane's book was a gift from my father-in-law, who plays piano at "Moby's." I am currently laughing with the discussion of whether Jane Fonda will ever show in a television interview in her's journey of healing. The second is a novel, a collection from Igmar's book club and tells the story about brother's 1-year-old and an inspirational book, "The Book of David" by The Alchemist and Moby's "The Book of David." It is well as a collection of stories of Moby's life. Report from Page A.
